- CAPA (Christian Association for Prison Aftercare) -- a national association for those who work in the field of prisoner reentry. CAPA was created to provide reentry workers opportunities for ongoing networking, training, resources, and information regarding new trends. Members have access to the on-line National Prisoner Reentry Database with over 3000 reentry organizations and ministries. -- www.capaassociation.org .
- Ex-Offender Resource Guide – Baltimore – Developed by the Mayor's Office of Employment Development to bring together diverse stakeholders to develop a citywide plan to assist former offenders in successfully transitioning back to the community. Extensive amount (over 300 pages) of information about resources in the City Of Baltimore -- www.oedworks.com/exoffender/resource_guide.pdf
- Goodwill Industries Supports Ex-Offenders in Employment Training and Transitional Services -- One of two major components, seven weeks of job readiness training, takes place at the Metropolitan Transition Center located in Baltimore, and with the coordination of the prison's administration, social work staff and transition coordinators. Baltimore City Community College provides pre-GED and GED instructors. The second component takes place at Goodwill's career center located in Baltimore and involves final job preparation and placement. The community component serves men and women who are on parole supervision or probation regardless of previous program involvement. Individuals who did not participate in the first component are required to participate in five to seven weeks preparation for employment.

- Jericho Reentry Program

901 North Milton Avenue, 3rd Floor
Baltimore, MD 21213

410-522-3293

<http://www.ecsm.org/programs/jericho.php>

Jericho is a workforce development program which assists male ex-offenders who are returning to the community and are motivated to participate in job training and placement. Successful reentry and the reduction of recidivism depend on many factors in the life of an ex-offender. Jericho guides the reentering man in addressing these various barriers and the formulation of plans to overcome them. We provide case management, mentoring and support to the men as well as access to those resources necessary to achieve successful re-integration back into their families and their communities.

- Maryland Re-Entry Partnership -- voluntary ex-offender program that serves men leaving Maryland State prisons and returning to neighborhoods in Baltimore City. REP provides intensive community-based case management for one year, which connects ex-offenders with the necessary support services for a positive transition to their communities. REP provides pre- and post-release programming, housing assistance, substance abuse treatment, mental health counseling, vocational/occupational training, educational services, to successfully re-enter the community, reduce recidivism and enhance public safety.

- Post-Release Transitional Program -- Partnerships for Re-Entry Programming (PREP) is the transition program in Maryland that is offered to 90 percent of the offenders being released. There are four components to the program: (1) cognitive skills training; (2) employment readiness and career development; (3) community resource information; and (4) victim/offender impact and awareness. The Maryland Correctional Education Library and the Division of Correction in partnership have compiled a concise listing of community service providers that is given to each offender upon release.
